Warren Report Critic:

LANE ATTACKS "BULLET THEORY"

By John Terrien

Speaking to an audience of about 150 in Building 15 Tuesday, Mark Lane, author and former New York legislator, called the Warren Commission findings the "Magic Bullet Theory." Lane, a critic of the Warren Report and author of the best seller "Rush to Judgment," spoke on "The Unanswered Questions About the Death of John F. Kennedy."

Mark Lane

Claiming the Commission published false testimony and doctored pictures in its report, Lane said they failed to question 95% of the witnesses.

Lane's main claim was that, according to all available evidence, Oswald could not have fired all five bullets that were shot. The Commission established that the fastest marksman in the country required 2.3 seconds to work the bolt in the alleged murder weapon. Yet, according to photographic evidence, all five bullets were fired in 5.6 seconds. The Commission's answer? Only three bullets were fired. If this were the case, claimed Lane, one of the bullets would have had to make several abrupt turns and enter and exit the victims' bodies several times to do as much damage as the original five bullets. Thus, the "Magic Bullet Theory."

Lane also claimed that a photograph of Oswald holding a rifle appeared in the Detroit Free Press, the New York Times, Life and Newsweek. But in each of these publications, the rifle Oswald was holding was slightly different. The picture, according to Lane, was probably not of Oswald at all, but doctored with the alleged assassin's head glued on a picture of a different man.

The Commission, felt Lane, was remiss in its duty to examine all the evidence. In the police investigation, 58 of 90 witnesses felt the shots might have come from behind a fence on a grassy knoll adjacent to the highway. Ten men saw a puff of smoke behind the fence. Yet, said Lane, none of them were called by the Commission as witnesses. The main problem of the Warren investigation, he felt, was that they went on the presumption that Oswald was guilty.

Lane concluded with the three questions the investigation has raised. "First, who killed John F. Kennedy? Second, why was he killed? And third, why has the government kept the American people from ascertaining the answers to the first two questions?"

Constitution Change Up Before Voters

A proposed change in the Constitution of Tacoma Community College will come before the voters April 30.

The proposed form will consist of a non-voting president and 13 senators. Seven of the senators will be elected spring quarter. The remaining six will be elected fall quarter.

The secretary and treasurer will be appointed by Student Government. The appointment of these officials will make it more professional.

Freshman and sophomore officers will be eliminated.

Voting will be held from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the TCC Cafeteria.

OBI Sponsors Strike Leader

Soloman "Scooter" Akins, propaganda minister for the Black Student Union and one of the leaders of the San Francisco State College student strike in the Bay City, will speak next Tuesday at noon in Bldg. 15 on the Tacoma Community College campus.

Scooter will explain the true facts of the student strike and their after-effects.

The OBI Society at TCC is sponsoring Scooter's appearance.

Scooter will also be appearing at 3 p.m. on the UPS campus.

Challenge Awarded Excellence Prize

The Collegiate Challenge was presented a second-place award in competition with the state's two-year college newspapers in the "Excellence in Journalism" contest sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

The award was presented April 19 at a banquet at the Seattle Center.

The judges, out of state members of Sigma Delta Chi, praised the Challenge's willingness to tackle controversial issues.

Centralia Community College took first prize in the competition. Green River Community College was third, and Clark College received honorable mention.

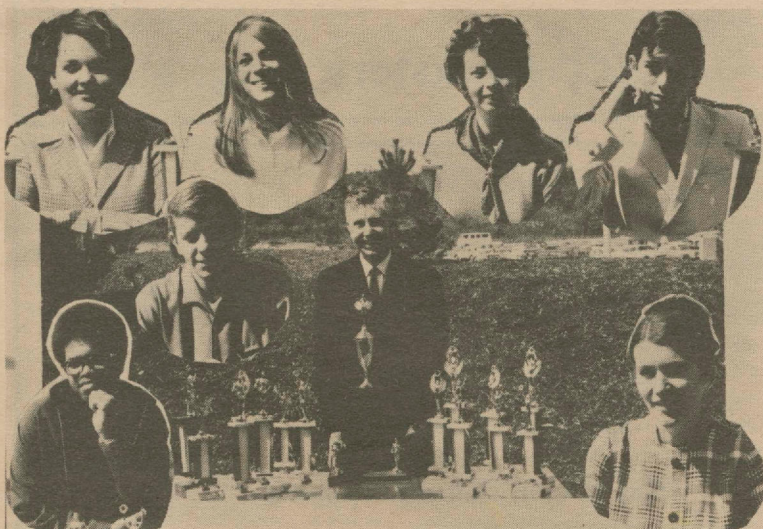

Challenge Editor Carl Zook was recognized at the banquet. Associate Editor, Tom Ries, accepted the award.

Johnson-Cox, printers and lithographers, have had the Challenge printing contract for the past three years.

Other Tacoma area school publications also fared well in the competition. The University of Puget Sound placed second among colleges over 1,000 and the Bellarmine Preparatory School took first among high schools under 1,000.

Collegiate Challenge reporters have learned that Dean of Instruction Dr. Kasper Marking of Columbia Basin College has resigned his position to accept the position of Dean of Minot State College, a four-year institution in North Dakota.

Dr. Marking's resignation was published in Columbia Basin's weekly newspaper, the Collegiate April 11. The front page of the Collegiate also reported that Columbia Basin's ASB President Bill Waddington had resigned because his "grades had gone to hell."

On the same day, Tacoma Community College's newspaper reported to its readers that Frank Cooper, Chairman of the Board of Trustees at TCC, resigned his position. The Challenge also reported the resignation of ASB President Bill Kageler. Kageler did not return to Spring quarter classes for "personal reasons."

Verrry interesting, isn't it?

University of Maryland

Need a cure for your boredom?

To relieve boredom and because it is a fad at the University of Maryland, nude runners wanted to "get out" after being cooped up all winter.

Robert S. Waldrop, psychology professor at the University said, "It's been a long winter." Even optimistic about the implications of the runs Waldron said, "It shows we have imaginative and creative students."

Controversy started when Maryland State Legislators learned that the University's literary magazine published 10 nude photographs of the runners.

A $50 damage deposit will be required of all students living off-campus next semester at Washington State University.

It was reported by the WSU Daily Evergreen that many apartment owners are on the warpath because of damage done to off-campus apartments this year.

Mrs. JoAnn Quast, manager of the Highland Realty Property Management firm in Pullman, said that the $50 deposit will be charged because of the "damage done to apartments due to malicious damage and filth left behind by students." Mrs. Quast cited cases of students doing damage up to $300 by breaking furniture, painting psychedelic dragons on the walls, and leaving apartments in such poor condition that they require the services of an industrial cleaner.

To insure that damages will not occur too rapidly, the firm will conduct periodic checks of apartments.

"It's a shame that students have to pay $50, but there is no way of telling what kind of students you'll get," said Mrs. Quast.

ing from the shelves. They had not been checked out and were nowhere to be found. The fourth one was in the process of being replaced as it, too, had been discovered as missing. Another one had been checked out to a girl who claims she never has seen it.

When that number of books are missing from one area of study, it leaves me to wonder how many other books are adding their color to some individual's book shelf! This is a great injustice for students who are in need for specific materials. I do not think we can shrug it off with "We can expect to lose a few books here and there." Something must be done to unmask these "self-made" librarians!

It may well be said that if we create a "cell-like" atmosphere in the library we will lose some student participation — Well, good! Perhaps we can chop down two trees with one axe. That is, perhaps the library could lose its social glamour by making it necessary for people desiring interpersonal verbal relationships to nest somewhere else. Consequently, perhaps the serious student could use the library without as much frustration. People who use the library with serious intent, I am certain, would not object to being checked for library books as they leave. If anyone seriously believes that having a "forceful" male checking the flow of books would create an atmosphere that would tend to repel students ought seriously to look at the problem from another angle. My frustration with the library situation is going to keep me and others from taking advantage of the books that the library may have and, then again, might not have on its shelves.

I hope that this helps others from taking advantage of the books that the library may have and, then again, might not have on its shelves.

I hope that this helps others to understand how I view our library. I have shown the advantages of having a so-called "prison-like" atmosphere, although this really is not the case because people who would not use the library under more strict supervision are the people living in cells.

I appreciate this opportunity to air my views. I also respectfully request that action be taken to correct the situation.

NOW, YOU CAN CHANGE TO A VOLUNTEER ARMY.

The draft is unfair to young men and a bad way to build our armed forces. Elect Richard Nixon President. Here's what he would do:

After Viet Nam, eliminate Selective Service completely. Change to an all-volunteer armed force, with better pay so that it becomes an attractive career. Professional, highly trained armed forces are needed for modern defense, and this "elective service" would remove much uncertainty from the lives of young Americans.

To Whom It May Concern:

Let it be known that someone is gaining a nice library at my expense! I am completely frustrated with the situation in the library! That is, while our library may be well equipped and it may make claims to have some outstanding books that I desire to read, under its present supervision it allows some people to borrow some of these books permanently without a shred of evidence.

This was brought to my awareness last week when I attempted to obtain some books relating to psychology and existentialism. Three of these books were miss-

Earthquake Crew Solves Mystery

A QUICK DEPARTURE — The courageous members of the COLLEGIATE CHALLENGE EARTHQUAKE EXPEDITION prepare to board their ship—the Arctic Voyage.

This is the second and last in a series of articles dealing with the San Andreas Earthquake Fault in the waters of Puget Sound.

It was cold, the sun would rise in another hour, but before it would shine on the water of Puget Sound, the Arctic Voyage would have already slipped into obscurity.

Myself only a passenger, I felt clumsy and out of place as the orders filled the air: Walk the port rudder! . . . Bring up the yard arms."

The quiet drone of the engines was only accompanied by an occasional cry of a lone seagull, who seemed to be lost in a branch of Puget Sound.

Approximately two hours after sunrise, the order to halt was given. The anchors were lowered. With the twist of a large brass key the captain opened the hatch to thousands of dollars in electronic equipment.

The monotonous roll of the gray water, against the gray sky, made the afternoon in the gray boat pass very slowly. This was not true for the geologists and oceanographers, who threw one device after another in the water.

At 3:48 p.m. the connection with the earthquake producing fault was made. Amid shouts and cheers the valiant vessel veered to the starboard to begin the vexing voyage home. The occertiploter needle guided the vessel toward the source of the fault. The needle constantly led us in a home-ward direction. Hours later the Arctic Voyager was once again tied to the dock. Could it be the expedition was to fail, after all the time and effort? Suddenly the head geologist jumped up from the dock and exclaimed that the device was still operating correctly.

After a brief caucus the crew decided to follow the needle on

From Baltimore, Maryland, comes the news that a "Rally for Decency" sponsored by young people ended in a riot. The riot was caused, witnesses say, by thugs who gathered at the exits and teased those who were leaving. As a result, fighting broke out and 133 persons were arrested.

I asked myself, after reading this disturbing article, who these characters think they are. I wondered if they had the power or the right to bully others.

After much thought, I came to a conclusion. They have no right to bully others and their power is only in their heads. They think that just because they are "better" than everyone else, they can push others around.

The ironic thing in this case was the fact that the victims were staging a rally for decency. Apparently, the attackers have less respect for freedom of thought than the people they attacked, who suddenly had no freedom at all.

I mentioned rights and freedom. One thing seems clear. The punks who instigated this riot do not realize that others have rights too. They do not care whose freedom is infringed upon as long as it is not their own. They care not what they do to others, as long as others do not do the same to them.

I believe the time has come to take all these hoodlums and put their desire to fight to good use. Viet Nam is full of boys who do not want to fight and I am sure that they would gladly trade places with those who do wish to fight. In doing this, we would be able to get rid of a lot of undesirable people and bring back a lot of people who could accomplish good things.

I think the end is drawing near for these thugs. They know it too. Perhaps starting riots is a last ditch effort to enjoy some of the terrorists tactics which

Decency Comes To Our Campus; Throng Cheer

"For your sake be decent. For your parents' sake be decent. For Christ's sake be decent!"

Thus spoke J. E. Prufrock at 12 noon Monday to a large group of cheering TCC students. Prufrock warned the audience of the growing spread of communist-inspired indecency plaguing our nation today. He warned, "If we don't stop this stinky movement now, we will have to fight them on our beaches."

He added, "I am a de-scenter in my own right, when I lived on my uncle's skunk farm I de-scented skunks."

Prufrock pointed to the immorality supported in a recent "pajama dance" in the TCC Cafeteria.

More decent rallies are planned throughout the spring quarter; if you are decent come on out.

Just outside of the twelve mile limit, the crew members busy themselves with scientific experiments.

land, as they had on sea. As a star in the East, the needle guided the wise men.

Gigantic Fault

The results were too spectacular to imagine. "Enough to freak the ancient mariner!" someone called before fainting.

After months of careful planning the expedition was complete. The data gained? As recorded in the ship's expedition log: "The disastrous prospects of an earthquake, caused by a new crack in the San Andreas Fault, were confirmed. At 11:43 p.m. April 21, 1969, the gigantic fault was traced to an extraordinary heavy burden located somewhere in the vicinity of the County-City Building. Cause of the hot-air producing burden is at this time highly suspected but not confirmed."

The chief geologist said, "I fairly well know."

With my boots off.

have elevated them to such publicized heights. Whatever the reasons may be for these violent outbursts, they are not good ones. There is never a good reason to bully people who are trying to improve themselves. The idea, however, does not seem to have sunk into the heads of these troublemakers.

One wonders, after incidents like these, if it ever will.

Showdown Set For State Track Powers

By Terry Rice

A showdown of the state's three community college track powers, Highline, Shoreline and Tacoma, is staged for tomorrow afternoon at Highline at 1:30.

This spring, as has been the case in past seasons, these three teams are in the thick of a battle for the state crown.

Last week, the Titans fought off sickness, an eight-hour bus ride and the thinclads from Green River in registering their second win of the young season.

TCC Cager Morin Picks Boise State

Marty Morin, former Peninsula High School basketball standout and a Tacoma Community College regular the last two seasons, has signed a letter of intent to attend Boise State College.

The signing of Morin was announced Monday by Bronco coach Murray Satterfield, whose quintet fashioned a 20-7 won-lost record last winter in their first season as a four-year college. Morin stands 6'4" and plays forward.

Netmen Outscore Grays Harbor; Raiders Next

Coach Harland Malyon's tennis team will take a short break from its busy schedule before being hosted by Ft. Steilacoom next Thursday afternoon.

The Titans met them Tuesday night for the first time but final scores were not available.

Monday afternoon, a victory-hungry TCC team bested a Grays Harbor squad by 6-1, losing only the first doubles match. "It was a well played match all the way through," commented Malyon.

Coach Malyon praised Terry Wright and Tim Moe for their outstanding play, especially in the doubles.

Tennis scores:

TACOMA 6, GRAYS HARBOR 1
Singles — Leon Matz (T) def. Dan Henry, 7-5, 4-6, 9-7; Tim Moe (T) def. Kalin Gunderson, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2; Greg Freitag (T) def. Tim Erickson, 6-3, 6-4; Terry Wright (T) def. Marv Smith, 6-0, 6-4; Bob Leitheiser (T) def. Bob Cournoyer, 6-4, 6-4.
Doubles — Henry-Gunderson (GH) def. Freitag-Leitheiser, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0; Moe-Wright (T) def. Erickson-Smith, 6-3, 6-2.

With many key members sick and being forced to sit on the bus for eight hours while waiting for repairs, the Titans had to rely heavily on everyone as the meet went down to the last event, the mile relay, to pull out the win.

Top honors for the meet went to freshman standout Charlie Mitchell, a Lincoln graduate, accounted for 16½ points as he took second in the High Jump, Broad Jump, and 220 Yard Run. He won the 100 Yard Dash in 10.0 and was a member of both the 440 and Mile Relay Team.

Other top efforts for the Titans were John Green's 50.4 clocking in the 440, Jon Hayes 2:00.3 triumph in the 880, and the 3:26.3 clocking brought in by the mile relay quartet of Green, Mitchell, Chuck Hunter and Mike Ide.

In an attempt to avenge an earlier one stroke defeat, Tacoma Community College's golf squad will host Centralia this afternoon at the Oakbrook course starting at 1:30 p.m.

In their previous encounter, the Centralia home course advantage spelled the difference as the Titans suffered one of only two defeats this spring, both by the same one stroke margin.

"Centralia beat us there, but on our own home course I feel we have a distinct advantage," stated Coach Bob Dezell, "and we should beat them if we play as well as we have been."

"We have to win our next four matches," cited Coach Dezell, "to get into the state finals." Last year, only league champions could get into the state finals, but this spring both league champ and runner-up are seeded into the final competition. The Titans finished second to Clark in the state tourney last season.

The TCC linksmen, now sporting a 4-2 season log, had a busy slate this past week. Last Friday, they easily beat out Lower Columbia at Oakbrook but final scores were not available. Don Beeson, however, did anchor the team with another consistent round of 73.

Monday, the team traveled to Bremerton for a return match against Olympic, and had to settle for a 328-346 victory there after besting the Rangers by more than 100 strokes on the Titans home course. Beeson again turned in a good round of 76 to go with an 83 by Steve Koukles, Chuck Peterson's 84, and Gene Keene's 85.

"We've been playing extremely well this season with good spirit and consistent scores," commented Coach Dezell. "We've got to beat Clark and Lower Columbia at their home courses, and I think we can beat the league's only undefeated team, Grays Harbor, here," he added. "If we hope to improve or at least match our second place finish last season in the state, these victories are a must."

The Titans have been scoring at an average better than last year's squad, but as Coach Dezell says, "We bring out the best in our opponents."

Coach Dezell has let known plans that the team is pondering a chance to participate in the Columbia Basin Invitational on May 5 and 6, with over 20 schools, both four year and two year, participating.

"We would really like to go," he commented, "but the only thing preventing our decision is the issue of money. It would cost over $200 for the team to participate including entry fee, green fees, motel rooms and meals."

"Another factor," he concluded, "is if we went to this, should we become eligible for the state tourney, we might not have enough in our budget to participate." But, he added, "It is up to the boys."

Intramural Play Begins Next Week

By Dennis Homes

Intramural slo-pitch at TCC will begin Monday, announced John Heinrick, Director of Intramurals, and roster sheets should be turned in by then.

Any student or group of students on campus can organize a team with from 10 to 12 members and turnout Monday for the league.

League play will consist of two games against each team in a round-robin manner. Equipment and the field will be available beginning next week for practice sessions or games until 4 o'clock.

The men's three on three basketball tournament concluded its final play today and winners will be announced next week. "Participation was good," commented Heinrick, "but we are going to run it in the fall next year and see what happens."

Also, on the intramural agenda is an archery contest to be held in approximately two weeks. Exact times and dates will be announced later.

Intramural pins will be awarded to winners in each sport and their names will be engraved on permanent plaques kept in the gym.

The intramural program is conducted daily under Don Martonik, newly appointed intramural manager, from noon until 1 o'clock. Anytime the gym, field, weight room or wrestling room are not being used by a class, they are open to the student body.
