Another championship . . .

Not to be outdone by the basketball team, the TCC forensics team has won its second state championship in three years. Paced by David Ray and Lewis Schrawyer, who were undefeated in debate, the team brought back 13 trophies from the state tournament in Longview. TCC forensics coach is Donald A. Hiatt.

Box office open . . .

Jules Feiffer's chilling drama, Little Murders, will be performed at 8 p.m. May 13-15 and 2:30 p.m. May 16 in the TCC Little Theater. All seats will be reserved. The box office in the Little Theater will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 5-7 and 10-14. The production will be free to TCC students; a $1.50 donation will be asked from others. Charles Cline directs the play, and lead roles are played by Caryl Corsi and Larry Bommarito.

Ever upward . . .

TCC's enrollment figures continue to set new records. The total number of persons who registered for spring quarter credit classes was 3,544 -- compared to 3,088 for the same quarter a year ago. The decline from winter quarter's total of 3,624 was less than usual. In addition, 1,061 persons are taking non-credit community service classes this spring. Records Officer Joe Kosai told the TCC Trustees at their April 22 meeting that applications for next fall are running 2 per cent ahead of last year.

Save the date . . .

The Friends of the TCC Library will hold their annual banquet at 7 p.m. May 28 in the new Washington Plaza Building. Speaker will be Bruce LeRoy, director of the Washington State Historical Society, who is completing a book on ballads and songs of the Pacific Northwest. Mrs. Marvin Swenson will appear as "Rhinestone Ruby," performing songs from American history. Tickets are available at the TCC Library. Cost: $5.50 a person.

People in the news . . .

Newly elected student body president is Steve Whitbeck, 25, a philosophy major and Army veteran... Dr. Thornton M. Ford, TCC president, will address the Association for Institutional Research in Denver May 17.
