Deferment Test Scheduled Nov. 18 and 19

The Washington state headquarters for the Selective Service System which has jurisdiction over 30 local Selective Service boards in 19 principal Washington state cities, has confirmed that a college qualification test would be given nationally on Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19. The college qualification test will be given in Washington state in the principal university and college cities.

The test will be administered by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

October 21 Deadline

The 30 local boards are now prepared to distribute application cards and bulletins of information to all registrants who desire to take the test. Applications must be postmarked not later than October 21, 1966. Registrants who have taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test at any time in the past are not eligible to apply again. Each registrant is entitled to take the test once and once only. Registrants normally interested in taking this test are graduating high school seniors and college enrollees. The test is not mandatory. Navy Captain Chester J. Chastek, State Director of Selective Service with headquarters in Tacoma, recommends and strongly urges those students who have not taken the test to do so as local Selective Service boards are thereby better equipped to determine whether or not a university or college student should be considered for deferment initially or should be considered for deferment again if he is now in a deferred status.

Captain Chastek pointed out that the experience with similar college qualification tests administered last May and June proved to be invaluable to those students who desired to be considered for deferment to continue their college education. Captain Chastek stated that college students should not be dissuaded or influenced from taking the examination if it is at all possible for the student to take the examination. "We have a positive record," Captain Chastek stated, "that some such instances took place last May and June to the ultimate sorrow of the student who had no other basis to present to the local Selective Service board for continued deferment. The local Selective Service board," he said, "was without the proper evidence to support a claim for deferment in the absence of a college qualification test passing grade."

WACCSG To Hold Meet October 14

The Washington Association of Community College Student Governments held a Northern Regional Meeting Thursday at Highline College. Diane Pelligrini, WACCSG Representative, along with J. Paul Steadman, GASTCC Advisor, attended the conference.

Members of the conference were planning to form a central file, which will compile information about social activities from different schools. This file will be available for different campus clubs.

An exchange of student body officers and talent between junior colleges was also discussed at the conference.

ASTCC Prexy Mike Fuller Quizzes V.P.

Vietnam was the prevalent topic discussed by Vice President Hubert Humphrey during the recent student press conference at Pacific Lutheran University.

The PLU gym, which holds 3,000 students, was filled to capacity on the morning of September 29.

Fuller Attends

Tacoma Community College, PLU, University of Puget Sound, Franklin Pierce High School, Clover Park High School and Stadium High School each sent one student representative to the press conference. Associated Student Body President, Mike Fuller, represented TCC.

Mike, a political science student, asked the following question:

"Recent articles in the 'Christian Science Monitor' have reported Mr. Shriver and Mr. Katzenback as being opposed to a court test of the constitutionality of the administration's education programs from the standpoint of their being in violation of the constitutional principle of the separation of church and state.

Unconstitutional?

"The paper reported that the officials indicated they would rather continue operating possibly unconstitutional programs than take a chance of hindering or preventing the carrying out of the programs.

"Would you comment on this matter and give your position in favor of or opposed to a court test of the constitutionality of these programs that involve federal aid to church related schools?"

"Get An Education"

Mr. Humphrey's first comment was that he was unaware of Shriver or Katzenback being involved in the affair. "I wouldn't worry too much about that article, and in the meantime I would try to get an education," he said.

Against Delay

Concerning a court case Mr. Humphrey said he was against it if it meant delay in the courts.

Mr. Humphrey declared that he was "strongly for federal aid to education. I don't think we've hurt the churches or helped them by federal aid. I think everything is going along pretty good," he concluded.

Concerning Mr. Humphrey's answer to Mike's question, TCC political science teacher Sheldon Gilman said, "I wish he could have fielded the question more exhaustively. He did a masterful job dealing with a highly controversial issue under not particularly favorable circumstances.

On a question concerning the

ABA Decision Will Retard Press in Crime Reporting

The American Bar Association has been studying issues involving "free press" for the past twenty months. They have just released a report which included, among other things, the following proposals:

Only certain aspects involved in a case, such as age, height, weight, address of the defendant, etc., should be permissible as subject material for newspaper articles. Information involving the crime itself should be restricted as well. News services should be required to pay for a new trial should any articles that the service prints result in a mistrial. Judges should have the right to penalize reporters for mishandling of information involving criminal cases.

Easy Way Out

These proposals, if adopted overall, would be an overwhelming step in the wrong direction. You do not necessarily solve a problem by eliminating one of the possible sources which might contribute to the problem. The American Bar Association is taking the easy way out by attempting to stymie the free press.

A defendant still has the right to appeal for a new trial. Rather than concentrating on eliminating the possibilities of a biased trial, the court should face up to its inherent responsibility. It is the job of the court to treat every motion for a mistrial very carefully. If a trial is biased because of reporting, it is up to the court to determine so.

Court Must Decide

The American public must be able to attain the information which is constitutionally made available to it. The court must perform the duties of its office including decisions on biased and/or unbiased trials. — JRS

NEW SERVICE

As a new service to the student body, The Collegiate Challenge, beginning with the issue of October 27, will carry a section of want ads. These ads will provide a means by which students can let other students know what they want to sell, buy, exchange, rent, etc. Rates will be 50c for 15 five-letter words.

"STUDENTS' REJECTION OF AUTHORITY IMPERSONAL, MACHINE-LIKE," SAYS STANFORD PHILOSOPHER

Palo Alto, Calif. — (I.P.) — "Student activists reflect the very tendencies against which they rebel — their rejection of authority tends to be quite machine-like and impersonal," according to Prof. Philip H. Rhinelander of Stanford University.

A philosopher, Prof. Rhinelander has received the university's highest award for undergraduate teaching and currently heads the Committee of Fifteen, a joint group of students, faculty and officers which discusses and tries to help resolve conflicts within the university.

"The process of depersonalization has gone so far that those who protest it have been caught up in it. They exemplify in their own attitudes the very tendencies which they decry," he added. "This is the most alarming feature of the situation."

Men Become Units

In protesting against the impersonality and machine-like treatment in large institutions, Prof. Rhinelander noted, "the students are reflecting an attitude found in much modern literature and philosophy — a protest against the dehumanization of a technological society in which men tend to become units, numbers, performers of function, rather than individual persons."

But students themselves reflect this problem, he added: "The more extreme activists do not seem to discriminate among particular individuals according to their individual views; they do not declare for liberal administrators as against reactionary administrators. The opposition, as publicly formulated, is impersonal and sweeping: 'Abolish the Regents'; 'You can't trust anyone over 30'."

"Everything is seen in abstract terms of position and status; everything is black and white; there is no respect of persons. The most consistent demand of the new 'left' is that students should be given a larger share in decision making on a wide variety of subjects," Prof. Rhinelander noted.

Status, Not Achievement

"But these demands are sometimes evidently made for symbolic reasons — for the sake of status — not for the sake of achieving any particular end or forwarding any particular policy. The activist students today want more authority not because they value it, but because they distrust it.

"They have no clear ideology, no clear program — or at least none has yet emerged. They have complaints, some of them well justified. They are quick to see errors, shortcomings, and deficiencies, both in the university and in society. And they want two things — one is protection against arbitrary regulation and the other is recognition. I do not say this in criticism. I think these two demands are natural."

General District

The activists include some Marxists, some exhibitionists, and "some campus politicians with personal ambitions," he added, "but on the whole my impressions is that student activism today is ideologically negative rather than positive. It is fairly specific in its condemnation but vague in its affirmations. There appears to be a general distrust of all traditional systems of value and all fixed institutions. If there is an ideology here, it is an ideology of non-ideology or anti-ideology."

Discussing how universities should view student unrest, Prof. Rhinelander said, "My strong conviction is that students ought always to be listened to — and I mean really listened to — even, or especially when, their demands are most unreasonable. This is not to say that they should be agreed with or that the administration should 'run scared,' for the students are quick to scent this sort of weakness and try to take advantage of it.

"What galls students most is not being disagreed with, but being talked down to. All of us are sensitive on this score, but college students particularly so, since many of them tend to be oversensitive about being treated as 'mature' individuals.

"The wise administrator, then, will see to it that there is a convenient and known avenue by which student complaints can always be entertained and looked into. If complaints are well founded, he may then be able to take corrective action before violence occurs. If they are not well founded, he may be able to explain why.

"In either case, he treats the complaining students as individuals, which is often the most important thing of all. This may be easier said than done. It requires patience, and it may take a great deal of valuable time. But such time, I believe, is time well spent. Good administration should be measured, in my opinion, not simply by the crises which are overcome, but by the crises which are forestalled — by the disorders which never happen."

Student Govt. Passes $26,000 Budget

By MARJI WILLIAMS

The Government of the Associated Students of Tacoma Community College has passed the campus activity budget for the 1966-67 school year.

Last spring each recognized organization submitted a budget. Through the summer and first few weeks of school the GASTCC treasurer, Donna Lee Massoth, contacted the representatives of each club and discussed at great length each individual budget.

Out of every full tuition paid at TCC, one-seventh is reserved for the student body funds, which is used by and for the student body.

Budget Disbursements

The following budgets were considered at the first two GASTCC meetings: athletics, $1,534.00; GASTCC, $3,131.06; all campus activities-special service fund, $450.00; Associated Women Students, $2,239.50; scrapbook, $50.00; handbook, $500.00; administration, $5,305.99; newspaper, $8,759.78; Folk Music Club, $300.00; Chess Club, $177.00; Drama Club, $1,330.00; model United Nations Club, $1,561.65; stage band, $850.00.

Reserve Funds

The total of these budgets, $26,128.98, became the proposed GASTCC budget for the fiscal year, 1966-67. Several groups were unofficially recognized by reserving funds for them. These budgets will be considered in the near future.

The treasurer introduced this GASTCC budget to the first formal meeting on September 27. After considerable discussion, a formal vote was taken by the nine voting members of the student government and the budget was unanimously passed.

Cross-Country Team To Meet Highline - Birds

By Tim O'Grady

The Tacoma Community College cross-country team, still smarting from a 15 to 81 defeat at the hands of the Shoreline team, will journey to Highline's home grounds tomorrow along with Green River for their second seasonal match.

In the match last Friday Shoreline came out the victor with 15 points, with Olympic trailing with 63 and T.C.C. far behind at 81 points. Shoreline's Herman Atkins paced the meet with a winning time of 15.16 with T.C.C.'s best effort coming from Jim Carsner placing sixth with a time of 16.02, over the three-mile course. In cross-country the victor is the team with least number of points.

"We have some pretty good boys on our team," said coach John Heinrick. "Jim Carsner of Curtis, Bruce Walker and Ron Brown of Stadium, along with Vince Williams of Mount Tahoma. All these boys show promise and I think we will improve."

In later matches the Titans will meet Centralia Friday, Oct. 21, Shoreline and Skagit Valley on Oct. 28, Green River and Centralia here in Tacoma Nov. 4.

Intramurals Underway

The Tacoma Community College new intramural program should be well under way by next week, according to Edward Fisher the program director. Those interested in signing up on teams should do so in building 9 room 28 by Wednesday evening.

"We have received over 500 applications for the intramural sports which are being offered," said Mr. Fisher. "This was well over what we expected. However we are very pleased with the interest being shown and are sure we will be able to accommodate everyone."

"The league will be arranged this way," explained Mr. Fisher. "Each activity club on campus will be represented with about 35 members. Students will be allowed to pick any club they wish providing it doesn't already have the maximum amount of players signed up. If it does he will be assigned to another club. It is important to remember the intramural player is not bound to attend the meetings of the club he is playing for. The club assignments are only for the intramural program and the player is not bound by them in any other capacity."

A big problem was the lack of facilities, but this has been temporarily solved until the schools new gymnasium is completed.

"During the Fall semester we hope to have three par golf, bowling, soccer and badminton for the boys, and volleyball and swimming for the girls. Later in the year there will include basketball, ping pong, softball, tennis, track, wrestling, weight lifting, swimming and archery," commented Mr. Fisher.

Activities . . .

Sports Complex Nears Completion

The Tacoma Community College gymnasium is more than two-thirds constructed and will be completed by January 1, with classes in full swing by the spring quarter. The gym is located about 200 feet northeast of building 19.

John Heinrick, head of the sports department, pointed out that the gym is the next building scheduled for completion since the sports department is the only off-campus activity program at the present time.

The gymnasium is built in the shape of a large T with the gym at the upper end. Storage, locker rooms, and an activity room will make up the rest of the building.

Mr. Heinrick stressed that the gym is for intramurals and that it will not be used for varsity sports. The basketball team will use Mount Tahoma High School as its home court and the track team will run at Wilson High School.

He added that he is very pleased with the way construction is going and feels T.C.C. will have a fine gym for physical education.

It is important he said, that the school millage on November 8 pass, so that the gym may be equipped with the necessary items such as lockers, basketball nets and many other items not covered in the main construction.

Cross-Country, Basketball, Track Sports Schedules Almost Complete

Three varsity sports are offered at Tacoma Community College this year. They are cross-country, basketball and track. The first cross-country meet took place Friday, October 8th.

Rules Set

Cross-country rules for the 1966-67 season are as follows: NCAA rules will be followed, a cross-country team will consist of seven men for conference meets, length of a run is a minimum of three and a maximum of four miles, and participants must run in full uniform. The team with the least number of points is the victor. The first man in gets one point, second man two points, third man three points, etc.

The 1966-67 state meet will be held at Clark College (distance 3.3 miles). All TCC home meets will be held at Wright's Park.

Games Scheduled

TCC's basketball team has a 25 game schedule this year, starting Friday, December 2nd, with the Titans facing Spokane. All Titan home games will be played at Mt. Tahoma's gym. The state tournament will be held on March 2, 3, and 4, 1967.

A six-game schedule is planned for TCC in track next spring. The state qualifying meets will be held May 26 and 27 in Yakima.

Folk Club Hopes for Hoot

At the first meeting of the TCC Folk Music Club, plans were discussed by Dennis Kaperick, club president. Local music talent will be presented once a month by the club. At least one Hootenanny will be planned for the future.

The club is set up for the exchange of ideas and techniques of folk music. Folk music has no precise definition. According to Dennis the styles range from Peter, Paul and Mary, to Mississippi John Hirt, from the Serindipity Singers to Dave Van Ronk.

Singing is not a prerequisite for membership. The club will hold business meetings on campus, with off-campus gatherings every other week at private residences. The meetings are open to everyone.

Chess Club Meeting

The Tacoma Community College Chess Club is meeting daily from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. in room 19-10. Bob Ehly, club president, said that anyone interested in playing or learning how to play should contact him at TH 5-3725.

A tournament is scheduled for this quarter. The winners will play against the Green River Junior College Chess Club.

Y.R.'s Set Goal of Sixty Members

The goal of the Young Republicans, for this year, is to achieve a membership of sixty by April.

If this goal is reached, they will be allowed seven votes at the next Young Republicans convention. As of now, the organization has achieved better than half of this goal.

October Busy Month

The Young Republicans have many events coming up. They started the year by participating in a statewide "Y. R.'s on the March" on October 8, for Larry Faulk, their second honorary member, who is a candidate for the state senate, 26th district. On October 15, the Y. R.'s are sending a delegation to Seattle Pacific University for a state leadership conference.

During the year they are planning to have several candidates for state offices here to speak.

Chairman Dan Howell, in encouraging new members for the club, said, "Anyone who is interested in practical politics is invited to attend any of the meetings". There will be a meeting for election of officers on October 18.

Debaters Prepare For PLU Contest

The Debate Club, advised by Howard Shull, public speaking instructor, has already begun preparations for their first debate at Pacific Lutheran University October 18-20. Newly elected officers are Don Grover, president; Arnold Davis, vice president, and Karen Creamer, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Shull commented, "Anybody who is not taking advantage of the debate program is cheating themselves out of a wonderful opportunity of broadening their education; not only intellectually, but socially."

Meetings Daily

For those interested, the meetings are daily at noon in room 19-4. The only prerequisite for debate competition is a state ruling that you must be taking ten credit hours.

This year's subject question is "Should the U.S. substantially reduce foreign policy commitments throughout the world?"

The discussion question is "What should U. S. policy be toward Communist China?"

Debates Scheduled

There are seven debates scheduled now, but additional contests may be arranged in the future. They are as follows:

Pacific Lutheran University, Oct. 18-20.

Highline Junior College, Oct. 22.

Centralia Junior College, Nov. 4-5.

University of Washington, Nov. 24-26.

Seattle Pacific College, Jan. 13-14.

Linfield, March 2-4.

There is a tentative meeting scheduled for the Young Democrats to be held Wednesday at 12 noon in building 9 room 5. All those interested should try and attend. Signs will be posted in case of a change of time or place.

Drive Underway For Library Aid

Under the direction of Mr. Walter Lilyblad, president of the 'Friends of the Tacoma Community College Library', plans are underway to conduct a community-wide membership drive this winter.

Since its first meeting last fall, the association has sponsored a book and magazine drive which added over 1,000 books to the library collection, as well as periodicals. In addition, the organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Marine Industrial Tacoma has provided the library with funds for purchasing a 100 volume sequence of the reprinted 'March of America,' which otherwise could not have been obtained.

Composed of business and community leaders at the present, it is the hope of the organization that the upcoming membership drive will promote public interest and participation. Other future plans include the sponsoring of at least one special event on campus, such as opening one of their meetings to the public next spring, with a special guest author as featured speaker.

WHAT'S UP

by Dennis Kaperick

The Associated Women Students are sponsoring a "Freshman-Faculty Tea," Wednesday, October 26, at 4:00 in the library. The tea is to acquaint the freshmen with the faculty. All freshmen are invited.

The AWS is also presenting a dance on Saturday, October 29. It will be held at Eagles Hall, from 8:30 to 11:45. "April's Children", formerly "The Regents", will perform.

Band Needs Talent

The Tacoma Community College Stage Band is looking for talent. The band is now part of the college curriculum. Members may receive one credit for their efforts in the band. Band members, however, are not required to be resigtered in the course. The band meets Mondays and Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. in 18-5. Interested students are encouraged to attend.

"Uncle Tom" Gayton Speaks

The Artist and Lecture Series, in addition to films, will host Gary Gayton, a graduate of the Gonzaga Law School. He also holds a degree in political science from the University of Washington. Mr. Gayton, a member of the national board of the N. A. A. C. P., will speak on Black Power. Gayton, who was formerly assistant to the United States Attorney in the state of Washington, is now in private law practice in Seattle. He attended the White House conference on Civil Rights.

He is referred to as "uncle tom" by the Black Muslims, but middle class negroes call him "radical."

Mr. Gayton will speak at 12:00, Friday, October 21, in 16-1.

The Artists and Lecture Series will also present lectures on Viet Nam, L. S. D., and Jazz.

Up and Coming

Wednesday, October 19—Artists and Lecture Series presents "The Bicycle Thief" 12:00 in 16-1

Friday, October 21—Artist and Lecture series presents Gary "Gayton on Black Power" 12:00 in 16-1

TCC MODEL U. N. CLUB TO REPRESENT COSTA RICA

The Tacoma Community College Model United Nations Club has been assigned to represent Costa-Rica.

Marietta Long, Club President, was very pleased with the assignment because as she said, "Costa-Rica was our first choice. We felt it was the right size for our club and our advanced research implied that a great number of current events will occur during the year."

Represents Costa Rica

Now that the assignment is in, the members of the U. N. club will start working double time so that they will be able to represent Costa-Rica efficiently for Tacoma Community College.

The Model U.N. Club is not satisfied to be active on only one front. During the past few weeks, a small committee consisting of Advisor Sheldon Gilman, Erlinda Grazziano, Dan Howell, Marietta Long and Jim Simpson have been working with Gorgam Robinson of University of Puget Sound and Mike McKeen of Pacific Lutheran University to participate in the Tacoma Chapter of the United Nations exhibit at the Winthrop Hotel in Tacoma on October 16.

TCC Exhibits

The T.C.C., U.P.S. and P.L.U. clubs are responsible for an exhibit explaining United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organizations (UNESCO). Committee members are very glad to have such an early opportunity to work on the U.N. and with the cooperation of P.L.U. and U.P.S. clubs.

Dr. Angus Bowmer Visits Tacoma Campuses

By Jan Balding

"I was somewhat surprised but very pleased at the good turnout we had. And those young people obviously weren't there simply because they had to be—they were really interested in Shakespeare."

These were the words of Dr. Angus L. Bowmer, founder-director of the Ashland, Oregon Shakespearean Festival, after his lecture-discussion at TCC on Friday, October 7.

Dr. Bowmer's wit and spontaneity immediately put his audience at ease, as evidenced by the number of though-provoking questions posed by those in the crowded lecture hall. Students and instructors alike responded warmly to every aspect of Shakespeare or theater discussed, ranging from how to apply to the Ashland Shakespearean Festival to what Dr. Bowmer looks for in an actor to portray Iago in "Othello". He said that they receive about 500 applications a year to appear at the Festival, which he founded in 1935.

Discussion Held

Saturday morning Dr. Bowmer held a roundtable discussion at TCC for drama and English from all over the area. These teachers brought up any problems they were having with choice or presentation of plays or the teaching of Shakespeare as literature. Again Dr. Bowmer everyone to relax and thereby profit even more from the discussion.

The high point of his four-day visit, however, was the Saturday evening performance at Pacific Lutheran University's Eastvold Auditorium. Tickets to the performance were sold-out days in advance. One could understand why after seeing Dr. Bowmer's portrayal of Shylock the Jew and Peter Quince the carpenter. In a 20 minute over-the-footlights discussion with the audience, Dr. Bowmer demonstrated how and why the interpretation of a role makes all the difference.

"Dream" Captivating

Although his performances first as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice" and then as Quince in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" were both outstanding, the audience seemed much more captivated by the second production. The fact might be due either to the difference in plays or to the fact that one of the other roles in "A Midsummer Night's Dream", that of Bottom, was so

"Stimulating and Exciting Experience," States Mr. Jansen

by Mary Beal

Luther Jansen, Tacoma Community College sociology professor, stated that working at TCC has been "the most stimulating and exciting teaching experience" he has encountered. The reason for this, he feels, is that the "students here are not in a rut. Instead, they are seeking their identities and "making up their own minds" as to their futures.

Researching in Olympia

Although he was born in Astoria, Mr. Jansen spent most of his boyhood in Canada. He lived in New York for four years where he studied Sociology of Religion at the Union Theological Seminary. He then taught at Thiel College in West Pennsylvania for two years. Mr. Jansen did research for the Department of Public Assistance in Olympia and from there came to Tacoma and taught on the Pacific Lutheran University faculty for a couple of years.

delightfully portrayed and provided an apt balance for Dr. Bowmer. The supporting roles were played by Tacoma area residents, all experienced in the theater. Mrs. Carlin Aden was the director of "The Merchant of Venice," while Mr. Morris Summers, TCC's speech and drama teacher, directed "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The Stadium High School Madrigal Singers and The Dance Artisans rounded out this memorable "Elizabethan evening."

Receives Award

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of an award to Dr. Bowmer from the Washington State Arts Commission in recognition of his "distinguished contribution to arts in the Northwest."

After seeing his Saturday evening performance, one can well understand the reason for the award and the reason that Dr. Bowmer has so often been referred to as "Mr. Shakespeare."

Mr. Jansen has traveled extensively throughout his life and feels that although "jumping around" has its disadvantages, he does not like the "ivory tower" situation on campus where one tends to lose contact with the outside. For this reason Mr. Jansen has taught alternately with working at other jobs.

STATE SS DIRECTOR CHASTEK ENCOURAGES TEST ENROLLMENT

With the war in Viet Nam continually escalating, the Army and other services are being forced to induct thousands of new men each month. The present number of monthly volunteer enlistments is nowhere near enough to supply the needed numbers of men. Therefore the Army has turned to using the draft to help fill its quota of recruits. The need for men is becoming so critical that the Army is being forced to draft men who were previously considered as being deferred. Among these previously deferred men now being drafted are some college students who, according to Captain C. Chastek, U.S.N., state director of Selective Service, "... rank in the bottom 50% of the male members of their freshman class, and have a score of less than 70% on their Selective Service College Qualification Test."

Afraid of Test?

"It is my belief," Captain Chastek said, "many students seem to be afraid to take college qualifying test because they think that if they receive a score of less than 70, they will not receive a 2-S (student) deferment. In truth, however, the test can do nothing but good for them. If a student is in the upper 50% of the male members of his class, he will receive a 2-S deferment whether he passes the test or not. If he receives a 70 or better on the test he will also receive a deferment no matter what his class standing. The only way that he can be drafted is if he is in the lower half of the male members of his class and fails the college qualifying test if he takes it."

Test Given Again

For anyone who has not taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test, it will be given for the second time on November 18 and 19. Testing centers will be University of Puget Sound, Pacific Lutheran University, and Tacoma Community College. Applications to take the test are now available at all local boards. Eligible students who wish to take the test should apply at once to their local board for an application card and a bulletin of information for the test. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it in immediately, in the envelope provided, to Selective Service Examining Section, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 988, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Applications for the test must be postmarked no later than midnight, October 21, 1966.

Captain Chastek said that "It will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once. By registering early he has the best chance of being assigned to the test center he has chosen. Because of the possibility that he may be assigned to either of the testing dates, it is very important that he list a center and center number for each date on which he will be available."

High School Level

According to Captain Chastek, "The test is geared to high school level and designed so that the average liberal arts major should have no difficulty in passing it.

"It must be remembered," stressed Captain Chastek, "that the test is not mandatory. However, I feel that all male college students should take it. It can only be to their advantage. Also, from what I have seen, many students are afraid of their local boards. They shouldn't be. The local boards are there for your help; they are there to serve you. Seek them out whenever you have a question concerning you and the draft."

Students Voice Opinions on Blue Laws

The Methodist Church in the State of Washington has recently come out in opposition to the initiative calling for the repeal of the Blue Laws. Among the reasons given was that it was believed the initiative, if approved, would, or could, eventually lead to the sale of liquor on Sunday.

The following is a survey conducted on the Tacoma Community College campus. The students interviewed were asked whether or not they felt that the initiative should be approved in light of the possibilities of liquor being sold on Sunday.

Survey: "Repeal the Blue Laws?"

Marshall Ness: "They're absurd. If you ride a horse to school, the school must provide a place for it. If I ride a horse this school better have a place for it! It's even illegal to drive an automobile on Sunday. They ought to be repealed."

Kay Schell: "Whether or not liquor is sold on Sunday, people will get it on Saturday and drink it on Sunday. People who drink will drink any day and those who don't won't any day."

Joe Remlick: "I feel that, in general, the Blue Laws are not taken as seriously as at the time of their origin. In actuality the Blue Laws are extremes that were drawn up for the benefit of upholding our standards of society but to their superciliousness, etc., are really not enforced and as a result appear to be nothing more than oversimplifications of mannerisms that are frowned upon by the people of society."

Dave Demick: "I don't think the Blue Laws should be repealed."

Jim Kessler: "I think they ought to be repealed, that's all. If they are on the books they ought to be enforced. If they are not enforced, they should be taken off the books."

Michele Anderson: "I don't think liquor should be sold on Sunday, and I don't think stores should be open either. The people who have to work should be home with their families."

John Meinema: "If you're going to maintain the Blue Laws — enforce them. If you're not going to enforce them, get rid of them. Remove them because they're obsolete."

Dorothy Denton: "In order for the Blue Laws to be effective, you're going to have to go back to the days when women were housewives and had time to do shopping during the week and Sunday was the Lord's day. If stores stay open liquor should be sold."

Mike Fuller: "I think anyone under 21 in a retail store should be able to sell beer. I don't think beer should be sold on Sunday. I base this on tradition and respect. I think if they are not going to enforce the Blue Laws they should be repealed. If they are not repealed, they should be enforced in their entirety. Parts of the Blue Laws are old and antiquated and have nothing to do with modern times. These parts should be repealed. It's not so bad to sell beer in a store on Sunday but taverns should remain closed."

Jim Reinsvold: "The Blue Laws should be repealed because liquor is allowed to be sold on Sunday in most other states after noon. All retail establishments should be allowed to be open on Sunday. It's ridiculous when a retail establishment is hauled into court for a $50 fine. It is worth more than that for them to remain open. Enforce the laws strictly or abolish them."

Don Grover: "No liquor should be sold on Sunday. If any retail trade is allowed to be operated on Sunday, they all should. The Blue Laws make a mockery of our legal system."

Ron Harrison: "The Sunday Blue Laws should be repealed or amended because they interfere with every citizen's Constitutional rights which we should enjoy in a free society."

Susett Coleman: "I don't believe liquor stores should be open but grocery and drug stores are a necessity."

policy of the United States in Vietnam, the vice-president stated the majority of the people are "unhappy" about any war, although "most Americans support the nation's policy" in Vietnam.

Constructive Alternatives

Discussing the demonstrators and pickets, the vice-president defended the right of dissent, but emphasized that the right of dissent carries with it the obligation of offering meaningful and constructive alternatives.

In response to a question regarding the reunification of Korea, Humphrey expressed his belief that the U.S. would continue to assist Korea and support them for reunification.

"More For Peace"

When asked about the Peace Corps, Humphrey declared, "One Peace Corps volunteer is doing more for peace than all the student demonstrators put together."

Replying to a question about the progress of the new South Vietnamese constitution, Humphrey said that since the committee had met only once it was too early to determine their progress. He added that it would be helpful to study some of our own political background since it would give us "more patience and tolerance" towards the difficulties of other countries.

Others Attend

Four TCC students, besides Mike, attended the press conference. They were Jan Balding, Donna-Lee Massoth, Jim Simpson and Gary Westcott.

A tape was made of the entire student press conference. According to Mr. Gilman it will be used for instructional purposes in the political science courses.

DEAN FALK GUEST OF GASTCC;

by Fred Elske

The October 6, 1966 meeting of the Government of Associated Students of Tacoma Community College was augmented by the presence of Dean of Students Richard Falk. He was invited by the GASTCC to discuss the upcoming November election, and shelter for students who take the bus.

He informed the members of the GASTCC that they had been invited by the Citizens Committee for passage of the school millage, propositions A & B, to have a member of GASTCC visit the committee.

Dean Falk also announced that if the GASTCC would commit the money, a bus shelter could be constructed for the convenience of the students. He said that he talked to the architect about the matter, and the shelter would be permanent and similar to other buildings on the campus.

In other proceedings, John McKinney, speaking for the blazer committee, suggested that since the size of the blazers would vary from year to year, it would be better to have the individual student buy the blazer and be given a patch for it. Mike Fuller assigned Roy Ketcheson and John McKinney to look into this matter and make a report.

Jan Henderson reported that only two tickets had been sold in the PLU ticket sale, for the performance of the "3 D's."

SCUTTLEBUTT..

by Jim Smith

Gather around all you ex-swabbies, ground pounders, jar heads, and fly boys, we're all "Joe College" types back on "Civy Street" and off to new worlds.

Did you know there are 55 post-Korea, 25 to 30 dependent and 10 to 12 disabled GI type school students among us? Well, according to the Dean of Student's office, there are. I am also informed that there are many more waiting to join us.

The grapevine has it that there is news about a Vets Club on the drawing board. Those of you interested might stop by 15-18 tomorrow, Friday, October 14, at noon. Requirements are that you attend Tacoma Community College as a member of either the student body or the faculty, have completed your active service, in service now, or be over 21 and attending this institution on the GI bill for dependents.

If you are interested in a club of this type and qualify but cannot make the first meeting, then please leave your name, address, and phone number with Mrs. Rohrs, building 17, on or before noon, Monday, October 17.

The bookstore informs me that orphans or dependents of disabled service personnel and disabled veterans are in some cases allowed to obtain their needed books and school supplies on these bills. If you think you might qualify it is worth while to check and find out.

Well, that's taps for now. See you around the campus.

FILMS TO BE PRESENTED HERE

TCC's Artist and Lecture Series began yesterday with the presentation of the film The Five Thousand Fingers of Doctor T, the first of several films to be shown on Wednesdays at 3 p.m. and at 7:30 p.m. in TCC lecture halls. These films, all major works, will be accompanied by short experimental films obtained from the University of Washington.

The next two major films to be shown are examples of Italian neo-realist cinema which is the basis of "films that have a common thematic base in contemporary man's inability to find himself and to communicate in a world without meaningful roots, traditions, or guidelines."

On Top Ten

The Bicycle Thief, scheduled for October 19, will be the first of these two films to be shown. Vittorio de Sica directed this uncompromising study of an ordinary man struggling for survival in an indifferent world. Bicycle Thief is still listed as one of cinema's ten greatest films of all time. The accompanying experimental short will be Autumn Color, a portrayal of vivid yellow, red, and orange autumn leaves accompanied by a piano improvisation.

Melodrama

October 26 is the date for the showing of Bitter Rice, a melodramatic story of labor and personal exploitation. Sex and squalor are both involved in this story directed by Giuseppe de Santis and starring Silvano Mangano. Being shown with Bitter Rice is A Chairy Tale, a "fairy tale" first shown at TCC last year. This film is a simple ballet of a young man who tries to sit upon a common kitchen chair but the chair runs away. The ensuing struggle for mastery, then understanding forms the story.

Admission to the films will be free to students of TCC.
