

Petitions due for ASB elections Thursday

By K. Lund

Petitions nominating a new student body president and 4 senators-at-large must be completed and turned in by noon, Thursday, May 7. They should be given to Mrs. Stang in building 6.

Candidates for these offices must be carrying 12 or more hours at TCC and have at least a 2.0 grade average.

Petitions are available on tables in both building 6 and the cafeteria. Candidates must also submit a photo of themselves and fill out a questionnaire.

Upon receipt of the petition and questionnaire, each candidate will be given a number. This number must appear on all campaign posters and hand-outs. Campaigning may actively begin on May 11.

Other campaign regulations insist that no posters may be put on any windows or doors.

All posters should be taken down by one week after the election.

Candidates may speak to students in the cafeteria May 11 and 18 at noon. Speeches in classrooms may be permitted by individual teachers.

Primary voting will be held May 13, from 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Votes may be cast in the cafeteria or the library. Any person with 50 write-in votes will be placed on the final ballot.

The final election will be May 20. Ballots will be available at voting booths in the cafeteria, the library, and building 18.

Anyone desiring to help with the elections and at the polls should contact Daryl Kooley, in building 6.

Any TCC student showing a spring quarter activity card may vote. These cards may be picked up in building 6.

GLENN YARBROUGH will perform at the Tacoma Mall Theater Thursday, May 7, at noon and 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the Bookstore and the Bon Marche at the Mall. 21 Club is sponsoring the concert.

DeVore blasts NSA program

By DAVE WORKMAN
Editor-in-Chief

Note: Wednesday, two letters were sent to the Challenge for publication, but due to the length of both, it was decided to run a story about the contents of both. The first, a letter from Charles F. Palmer, President of the NSA, was sent to our John DeVore, and the other letter was DeVore's reply.

Last August, at the meeting of the National Student Congress, held in El Paso, Texas, the student leaders of this country voted to commit themselves to raising a sum of $50,000 from local student governments and campuses to aid in establishing the National Association of Black Students. According to Palmer, the commitment was made in the hope that a new relationship between black and white students would be established. It was hoped that, also, a new spirit of cooperation would be created between the races.

According to Palmer's letter, UCLA has given $500 to NABS, the University of Texas gave $200, Syracuse has pledged $1000 and Colgate has pledged $500. Quoting Palmer, "This is a start, but much, much more is needed." In order to fulfill the commitment, the Board of NSA decided to designate April 30 as "National Reparations Day." It was hoped that money raising programs would be put on that day.

However, it seems that when the voting took place to make the commitment, legal procedures were not followed, and, according to the reply letter, written by DeVore, "... and as long as chaos prevailed during that time it would seem almost impossible to have a democratic vote, on that issue."

DeVore also stated in his reply that, "It is my firm belief and I hope yours that this Nation cannot survive divided. Just as this Nation must be United in her efforts, so must the students in their efforts. To separate the students based on race, divides the student strength." He stressed the point that to divide the students because of race is in conflict with the Civil Rights Act. It is clear that John DeVore believes that the formation of a National Black Students Association would only serve to divide the national student body.

DeVore also said that, "This campus WILL NOT plan any program designed to raise money toward YOUR $50,000 commitment." He ended his letter by stating, "If you truly believe . . . We must not let this opportunity to say that white and black can work together, with dignity, without domination of one by the other . . . then you will join me in pledging one student association regardless of race working together for our common goals."

At the time the paper went to press, DeVore was unavailable for comment, so the Challenge is unable to relate any further information. The reply was dated April 20, 1970, so it is safe to assume that it has been received by Palmer.

DeVore sincerely believes that, at least at TCC, the students can work together, and do not need to divide themselves in order to meet a commitment made by someone else. He thinks that this country's student body is in enough trouble without allowing itself to become internally alienated.

Golfers receive tourney invite

Again this year, the TCC golf team has accepted an invitation to play in the Columbia Basin College Invitational golf tournament. It will be held this coming Monday and Tuesday, May 4 and 5.

The tournament will be 36 holes in length with the first 18 to be played at the Sham-Na-Pum Golf and Country Club, and the final 18 at the Pasco Municipal Golf Course. Monday's round is scheduled to be an afternoon round while Tuesday's round is to be played in the morning.

Last year TCC finished fourth in a field of twenty-five community and four-year colleges. Portland State won last year's tournament with Everett Community College second, Columbia Basin third and TCC fourth.

Student parking mulled by Senate

Lucille M. Spencer

The Senate meeting started exactly at 12:15 P.M. last week, the 23rd. A number of things or matters of business were taken up, and with speed. For the first time in many months the meeting was adjourned in just one hour.

The different committees reported their progress. The Commencement Committee suggested Mayor Gordon Johnston as speaker for graduation day ceremonies. Other Senators asked for a list of speakers available and that the graduating class have something to say as who is to speak at the Commencement. Any ideas Grads????? Drop in at the Senate Offices in Building six and give them a few names for speakers you would like to hear.

The parking problem was

Campus tolo held tonight

Don't forget — the AWS Tolo, "Aloha Malahine" is tonight from 9 to 12 in the Crystal Ballroom. The cost is nothing and programs can be picked up in the cafeteria today.

A King, Queen, Princes and Princesses were chosen last week by student voting. A highlight of the spring formal will be the crowning of the Queen by Dr. Thornton Ford, president of the college.

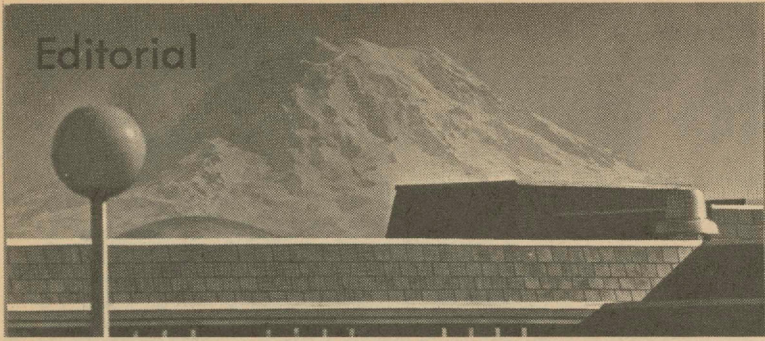

Gazecki, Ned Heisler and Terry

Erdman are the five golfers who will accompany Coach Dezell to the Tri-Cities to represent TCC in the tournament.

brought up again. There seems to be the eternal problem of students parking in reserved sections. The suggestion is to stop fooling around and have violator's cars towed away instead of just a ticket. The tickets don't seem to be very effective. It seems that one of the senators is one of the biggest violators there is and he fought bitterly against towing the cars away. Don't worry though as the administration says that the cars CANNOT be towed away and that the problem will not be bothering us next year as there is a solution in the works. What the solution is they will not say. They did give a few hints as, there will be faculty parking, parking for the handicapped and more parking in better located places for the students.

A new grading system was reported by senator Perry Saueresig, it consists of an "A", "S", or "F". The new system has to be approved on a department basis and not with the individual teacher or student. That is the student and teacher cannot decide between themselves whether he or she will receive an "A", "S" satisfactory, or "F" failure or what have you.

The Senate Meeting closed by 1:00 with the announcement of the Primary Election being held on the 6th of May, which brought a lot of unofficial comment of not enough time for all the students to know about the petitions that are to be signed by the students. The closing remarks by John Stella seems appropoe quote, "Will miracles never cease, a senate meeting over in less than an hour."

Chaos continues;

After all the talk about pollution and environment, is it not ironic that the Teamsters Union helped celebrate Earth Week by allowing city employees to stage a two-day garbage strike? We think so.

Take into consideration the fact that, in the two days that the city folks were out manning the picket lines, tons of garbage were allowed to pile up, drawing all kinds of varmints, from stray dogs to the typical housefly. The result was near panic, until our city fathers were successful in their bid to get the garbage collectors back on the job.

However, we must consider the place that this minor crisis took place. Tacoma is the fun capital of politics, with features ranging from recall movements to hate-filled underground newspapers, all with the similar goal of tearing this city to pieces. For Tacoma to be bailed out of its present state of affairs, we will need to call in the Impossible Missions force, and hope for the best.

Don't Lubricate the Bay

With all the trouble this nation has had with oil slicks and off-shore drilling rigs, it borders on the ridiculous that someone wants to set up rigs in Puget Sound. One outspoken critic of this program is Deputy Mayor George Cvitanich, who has been opposed to such operations for many years. We hope that his attempt to get others to listen and take position with his cause is successful.

In just about every location where off-shore rigs are set up, there have been devastating oil slicks occurring with alarming frequency. We of the Puget Sound area do not want this to happen to us. The time to protest is right now, before any definite operations are set up by the oil companies. If we wait, it will be too late.

—DAVE WORKMAN

After reading of the destruction of wildlife in numbers of tens of thousands of birds, two killer whales, 400 hair seals, sea otters and other wildlife in the wake of an oil spill 100 miles long and ten miles wide along the Alaska Peninsula, one now finds that Governor Evans and the State Natural Resources Department intends to lease tidelands of Point Defiance, Vashion Island, and Whidbey Island for oil and gas exploration. One becomes sick at the thought! One realizes that the state will get 12½% royalty on any producing wells, but should money be the only consideration here? Which is more important, money or a clean, healthy environment for wildlife and for mankind?—Joanne Kingsbury, Feature Editor

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear editor

lets of upcoming events, and the I have been thinking about student involvement on this campus all year long. But after reading an article in last week's Challenge about using the Challenge to publicize upcoming events, I finally decided to write this letter.

The writer of the article stated that the clubs on campus do not fully utilize the paper for advertising their events. I have to agree with him on this point. I believe that the more facilities used to advertise campus activities, the better. This is what the Challenge is for. And I have to admit, the Challenge has done a fairly decent job about reporting on most of the campus activities (although a lot of space has been wasted on off campus activities). But I disagree with the writer when he states that if the students are informed, especially through the Challenge, that they will attend in "very satisfactory numbers." That's a bunch of hogwash! Either students are informed but apathetic, or they are not informed because their eyes are closed. Assuming that students are not apathetic, as the writer of last week's story seems to think, I will hit on my second point. Students can be informed if they want to. Most of the activities on this campus are usually advertised several days in advance; signs cover the walls of the library and other buildings, the campus is swamped with leaf-reader boards always post the activities of that particular day. All of this is offered to the student if only he will take time to read them. Still, many of the events are poorly attended. Advertising an activity in the Challenge has not been as successful as the writer of last week's article may think. Usually the event takes place several days after the students read about it in the paper, consequently they forget about it.

But what if the students do read the advertising on campus? Why don't they then attend in "very satisfactory numbers"? Maybe they are apathetic.

Allan French
P.S. This goes for the faculty and the administration too.

Tennis team wins

By Tom Winter

The Titan tennis team bettered its league record to 4 wins and 2 losses with a 7-0 win over Centralia, Wednesday, April 22.

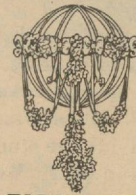

Last week it was reported in the Challenge that the team's league record was 3 wins and 3 losses, but this was a mistake. TCC's league record was 3-2, and season record 3-3.

TCC's 7-0 win over Centralia was its first sweep of the season.

In the singles matches Leon Matz defeated Centralia's Mitch Carlson in two sets, 6-4 and 6-0. Tim Moe bettered Dave Rapp 6-3 and 6-3. Bob Leithieser player his first singles sets of the season and defeated Dan Quaintance in three sets 7-5, 8-10 and 6-1. Larry Miki shutout Don Harris 6-0 and 6-0. Larry Bienenfeld beat John Lipinski 6-1 and 6-0.

In the doubles Matz and Moe teamed to beat Carlson and Rapp 6-1 and 7-5, and Miki and Leithieser beat Quaintance and Harris 6-2 and 6-1 to close TCC's sweep.

A what?

A club for both men and women

By Judy Grenier

A Sports Car Club? Isn't that a great idea? We think so. That's why TCC has one.

But maybe Sports Car Club is not an appropriate name. A lot of our members don't have Sports cars. So how about just Car Club? That doesn't work either since some members don't have any form of transportation other than the Tacoma Transit (when it's working!). All that leaves us with is Club. That sounds a little rinky-dink, huh? Not wanting to sound second rate we decided to just leave it as Sports Car Club. You do not, however, need a sports car to join.

With the movement for women's rights, it is only fair that they be allowed to join also. And so they are, We don't segregate! SCC is for men and/or women. We are sure that most of you will fit into one of these categories.

What SCC needs now is new members. We have only three requirements for membership. First, you must be a student. This means you must be registered, not necessarily attending your classes. Second, you must be a person, as most of you are. There are no exceptions to this rule unless you are rich. Third, and by far the most important, you MUST like to have fun. This is mandatory for membership. No poop-outs allowed!

If you are interested in joining, and meet the qualifications, why not come to a meeting? They are held every Monday at noon in 15-1.

Unlike some of the clubs on this campus, SCC is not only a once-a-week meeting club. We have many outside activities. This Sunday, May 3rd, there is a Gymkhana Autocross scheduled. This fancy name is just our way of saying we're going to have an organized goof-off in the parking lot.

There will be three separate and completely different courses to go through. The first will be a Blindfold Slalom. This is where the driver will be blindfolded and the rider will give him verbal direction on where to go! The second will be a Musical Chair's course. A group of four or five cars will drive in a circle around a set of chairs. When a signal is given the driver will stop his car, get out, and run for a position on the seat. The only catch is there will be one chair not enough. It will be an elimination. The third course will be a Merry-Go-Round one. A driver will have to wind a kite string around a barrel. Sounds easy but try it while driving a car.

This autocross is not the only event scheduled. We have every weekend in May planned.

SCHEDULE

- May 3—The Gymkhana; registration 1 a.m.-2 p.m.
- May 4—Last day to register for 2 day Rally, $2 fee; see any SCC member
- May 9 & 10—Two Day Rally, begins at 9 a.m. Pre-registration only.
- May 17—Peninsula Tour. Registration 11 a.m. - 12 a.m.
- May 24—End of Year Party; members only. Why not join?

Anyway, that's what Sports Car Club is all about. We hope if you're interested you'll come and see what we have to offer.

Judo matches this Sunday in TCC gym

The Puget Sound Junior Judo Championships will be held this Sunday, beginning at noon, in the Tacoma Community College gymnasium.

The tournament, which will feature 8 through 16-year-olds from Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, is open to the public. Competition will conclude about 7 p.m.

Co-sponsors of the event are the TCC and Tacoma Dojo Judo Clubs. Bob Marien is the instructor for both clubs. The championships are sanctioned by both the American Athletic Union and the Puget Sound Judo Black Belt Federation.

Approximately 200 athletes are expected to compete in the light, middle and heavy weight divisions of the following age groups: 8 and under, 9 and 10, 11 and 12, 13 and 14, and 15 and 16.

Weigh-ins will be held at 10:30 a.m. Admission is being charged to pay for trophies.

DAVE RIVISTO, TCC student and Judo Club member will be in Santa Monica, California tomorrow, along with 1200 others to take part in the World Pro-Am Judo Championship. Dave will be competing in the black belt division as he is a first degree black belt.

Ecologist says:

Restructuring of society is the answer

By Joanne Kingsbury

"What I advocate is for the ecology movement to work for the complete restructuring of society," said Joe Felsenstein, the only speaker on campus here at Tacoma Community College on Earth Day, April 22.

Felsenstein, assistant professor of genetics at the University of Washington and a member of Seattle International Socialists, told a small group of students that with our capitalistic system of government it makes economic sense not to clean up pollution. In a competitive society the consideration is how the industry profits and not the general welfare of the people.

Planned Economy

He said that the ecology movement as a whole seems to think the problem can be solved under the present economic structure. "What's involved here is a planned economy which is anathema to the people." Whether we tax industries, institute fines or switch to other industrial processes or provide subsidies, it is the consumer who pays. The cost is passed on to the consumer in increased prices, coming out of the pocket of the average man or woman in terms of living standards, he said.

The real danger to the ecology movement would be to put it on a collision course with the labor movement. He said that the ecology movement may find itself cramming low living standards down the throat of the average middle man and the average man is not going to accept those standards.

Better Ways

There are better ways to solve the problems, he said. Money to improve industry pollution-wise could come from the large amounts of money now spent for our defense and space programs. The money could also come out of the pockets of the rich, if we step out of our present economic structure into a socialistic society.

Down-rating present efforts of environmentalists, he gave names to the various tactics used: Eco-liberalism, Eco-pacifism, Eco-anarchism, Eco-terrorism, and Eco-"maoism."

He said that Eco-liberalism, the most dominant strain now in the ecology movement, advocating solution by reform, passing laws increasing the powers of regulatory agencies, imposing pollution taxes, runs head-on with the working class of people who will ultimately pay it out of his pocket.

Mass Movement

Eco-pacifism, the movement to do small things on an individual basis such as consumer boycotts, giving up your car and trying to get other people to do the same can be likened to the anti-war movement with individual action such as burning draft cards. Such efforts will not work, he said, because we have no adequate mass transit system and in the case of boycotts, it would have to be nationwide because of the great effect of commercials and advertising on the consumer.

Another tendency is eco-anarchism-people talking about going to the woods to live in communes etc. as an escape from society as it exists. While people could live in communes in a non-industrial way, they ignore problems such as what if the baby gets sick and you can't get to a doctor. He said we would be basically going back to the middle ages with a higher death rate.

Another movement suggested is eco-terrorism, doing such things as blowing up industries, and cause massive traffic jams, which he said is the perfect way to antagonize anyone who could help with the ecology movement.

Eco-"maoism" is the idea of solving environmental problems by voluntary poverty as some people think American wealth is the root of our problems. Felsenstein says this is nonsense as "the average American could easily absorb a doubling of income."

WITH MY BOOTS ON

Monday dawned with some of the worst clouds I have ever seen. I really wondered whether or not I should subject my old Studebaker wagon to such extremes . . . I did, and sure enough, it was not the car that winded up getting tired, but myself. What must have made me so tired was watching that Raquel Welch special the night before.

The thing that really irritated me the most about Monday morning was the damn rain, which, instead of showing its true colors in a cloudburst, decided to sneak down here in the form of a nasty little drizzle. That is by far the worst kind of rain, because it just soaks into everything at such a rotten, slow pace. Makes me wonder if we shouldn't give this part of the country to all those knotheads out in radio land.

Tacoma

Over the weekend here in town, the real dumb guys were at it again. I am talking about our buddies, the school vandals. These roving idiots go out on weekends, get tanked up on daddy's Colt 45, and then destroy thousands of dollars worth of school property, which has to be payed for by our tax dollars. It would be nice if, when apprehended, these clowns were forced to clean up their messes and pay for the damage. However, knowing the ways of most officials, the poor misguided waifs would probably get nothing more than a slap on the wrist and a warning not to be a nasty little boy again. Isn't that sweet?

Well, the garbage strike is over, and the busses are also running again, which makes me real proud of our city fathers, for a change. After all, who else but the manager and mayor could sit down and talk things over with the strikers without flying off the handle and accusing them of being motivated by communists? Not many folks, me thinks.

Now another salute to the dumb s.o.b. who is responsible for the Ruston Hawk. Now that he has revealed himself through his uses of familiar phrases, all I have to know now is where he hides his typewriter. If we steal it from him, he might be forced to go into the corner to suck his thumb.

The Campus

Last weekend, in the Little Theater, a crew of about a dozen people worked feverishly all night Friday and all day Saturday preparing sets and costumes for the upcoming play. I must salute these stout-hearted individuals for staying there when they could and should have been home in bed, all for our benefit. I feel sure that the production will be a success, and we know who is responsible.

Speaking of the play, Charles Cline, drama instructor, hopes that the production will draw standing room only crowds. I hope so too, as he and the other members of the crew have worked so hard on preparation of the set, not to mention the hours that director Morris Summers has put into helping the players polish their lines.

Women's liberation seems to be getting more ridiculous every day, and there is some offense meant here. After all, how many times have we heard a woman insist on being treated like a man, only to fall back on her femininity when the going gets a little rougher than she expected. I am generally p.o.'d when this occurs, because I know it is not exactly cricket to slug a woman in the mouth. I'll just have to remember that they demand equal treatment. By god, from now on, I guess they will have to settle for less.

Now a note of congratulations to all who took part in the March For Hunger over the weekend, as it was a noble undertaking, and, in all sincerity, one of the first marchers back was a female. My boots are off to her, and all the others who gave their time and energy to such a worthwhile cause. Considering the weather they had to walk through, it took more than average fortitude to go the full route.

John Stella tells me he is going to sponsor the riots this spring, in the hopes that everyone will find something else to do on the designated days. Hang in there John, and you'll be disappointed. All you have to do now is threaten to go into the hole if ticket sales go funky . . .
